The musical score is written for piano and voice. It begins with a piano introduction in 2/4 time, marked 'March tempo' and 'ff'. The piano part features a rhythmic melody in the right hand and a supporting bass line in the left hand. The vocal line enters with the lyrics 'Oh, It's' and continues with the main melody. The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support throughout the vocal lines.

I Love, I Love, I Love My Wife, But Oh! You Kid! (Von Tilgner) Best known solo by Arthur Collins. Orchestra accompaniment.

The most sensational hit in years and the greatest success of Harry Von Tilgner's career as a popular song composer. The song has taken the wildfire and is already known the country over, though only very recently published. To hear is to best appreciate its contagious humor and catchy air. Our record is a masterpiece, sung by Mr. Collins, whose delivery in a song of this character needs no comment.

I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now? From "The Prince of the Night." Howard's Tender Solo by Harry Burr. Orchestra accompaniment.

A delightful tender number from a new musical comedy now playing in the West with immense success. In sentiment it is the reminiscent allusion of a man who is yearning on the fate of some of his former flames, the melody is so sweetly still cling to him. The melody has a tender and dreamy charm that will melt hearts for the song everywhere. This record has one of the best singing that ever went into a recording machine. Mr. Burr in this easily eclipses any of his former successes.

My Pony Boy. (O'Donnell) Song by Columbia Male Quartette. Orchestra accompaniment.

A new song of the west with the spirit of the prairies in its breezy and tender air. The lyric tells of a little cowboy who is happy in the salutation of his western girl friends until he meets a "dippy" girl from New York. The verse is sung by the baritone, the quartette joining in the refrain with charming effect.

Good-Night, Moon-Light. March-song. (Morley) Song by Columbia Male Quartette. Orchestra accompaniment.

A really melodious quartette rendering of an exceptionally beautiful serenade in the form of a marching song. The melody is harmonized throughout, the entire selection and the voices blend with remarkable effect. Vocally this record is superb.
